MAKE THE TOWN GAY

THE MATTER OF DECORATIONS Blue...The Trades Display to be Three Miles Long-Some Lively Notes.

Nothing is heard on the street, about public places, on the railroad trains or anywhere that men congregate but re-union talk. The big event of next week seems to fill everybody's mind. If the people only carry their interest into the matter of decorations they will confer favor upon the committee. The genera street decorations, arches, stand-pipes and the like, have been provided for. It now remains for the business men and citizens by hearty co-operation to make the town gay as she never was before regard to the lines of march of the big processions. The Committee on Decorations held a meeting last night and recoived to ask the people to decorate to the best effect possible with their means and ability. A householder who cannot afford expensive decorations can certainly buy a number of small flags. Every bouse in the city ought to have some decoration. HOW TO DECORATE.

The committee takes it for granted that every live, patriotic citizen will decorate his house. It is desired, however, that some system and some variety may be observed, and the following suggestions come trem the committee.

served, and the following suggestions come from the committee:

A very preity house decoration can be made by tacking a cluster of flags on the top of the door and windows so that they form a half circle, all radiating from one point in the middle of the window, and lying flat ngainst the wall.

Another idea is to have the flags extend out from the window sill, all being tacked in the middle, and forming a half circle.

The committee also desires to have citizens, where able, to supplement the committee also desires to have citizens, where able, to supplement the comtore and delegations at the steamboat landing: Jacob Kemple, Chairman; O. G. Schoffield, J. M. Gonter, Fred Miller.

Dr. Estep, of Lloydaville, will ride in a four-in-hand in the big parade at Wheeling, drawn by a $2,000 team of black, fast trotters, headed by a team of sorrels. The dector bought the vehicle in Cincinnati expressly for this occasion.—Belleire Tribune. The committee also desires to have citizens, where able, to supplement the committee's work by stretching flags, streamers or other decorations across the street. Two persons living opposite can get a streamer with an appropriate motto made very cheaply. These can be surrounded with little flags or decked with evergreen: A banner with device or motto strung from house to house and suspended over the middle of the street is effective.

THE TRADES DISPLAY.

The Committee on Trades Display had the most fully attended meeting last night at the office of Mr. Augustus Pollack, on Water street, which it has yet held. Assurances were given that at least 120 wheeled vehicles will be in line. The number will without doubt reach 150. A little calculation will show the magnitude of this dinaley.
